"...bite size, easy to understand..."

These videos have cut down something that seems scary and complicated into bite size, easy to understand pieces that even a Newbie like me can understand.

- Cathy Bendzunas

"Awesome!"

Your videos are loaded with tons of information. Only one word is needed to describe them... awesome!

- Mike Folsom

"...super video series..."

What a great charge of powerful and highly informative information. I finally understand how, instead of having an amorphous collection of blogs and sites, they can instead be put to work creating some synergy!

I was late to the Twitter party!

Welcome to My Twitter Toolbox. Obviously, you're a little swifter on the uptake than I was about Twitter. You're digging right into Twitter to ensure that you get the most out of it. I hung back for a really long time.

That was a mistake.

In fact, I thought Twitter was a complete waste of time and little more than a cute distraction. Then, fully one-tenth of my paid attendees at the Niche Affiliate Marketing System workshop purchased a ticket after seeing the event mentioned on Twitter.

Some people will read a 40-page sales letter to buy a product. Others need just 140 characters from the right tweet. But how do you find the right tweeters? How do you get involved in the right conversations? How do you track what's going on with your keywords on Twitter?

And most of all, how do you have fun on Twitter?

All good questions. And questions that I needed to answer for myself as well.

So, I created the My Twitter Toolbox.

This is a living ebook. We'll update it on a regular basis as new Twitter tools are revealed and others fall by the wayside. And you'll be provided with the latest version (probably monthly).

This is not intended to be a comprehensive review of each of the tools listed here, nor even a complete listing. But it is a good start.

So, stay tuned. You'll receive regular updates to your Twitter Toolbox, and dominate Twitter in no time.

By the way, you may want to check out this resource too.

It's a simple piece of software for building and profiting from a targeted list of Twitter followers. I tripled my number of Twitter followers in just 6 days using only one of the techniques recommended in this program. And as I pointed out in the beginning, having a lot of Twitter followers is just another way to increase your sales by at least 10%.

Enjoy My Twitter Toolbox!

David Perdeu

Learn Your Twitter Ranking And Find New People To Follow

Twitter Grader

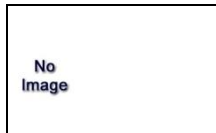

This is a new tool for analyzing the power of your Twitter profile and seeing how you stand in relation to your peers.

This useful application is stationed at Twitter.Grader.com. The mechanics of the site itself couldn't be easier: You simply key in your name in the provided box and then you can see your overall rank alongside related information, such as number of followers.

Top 100 Twitter User Rankings And Statistics

Twitterholic

Twitterholic is a fun tool that allows you to the top 100 Twitterers on the Twitter system. This list is constantly being updated, so you can find out who the most popular Twitter users are right now.

To participate, do what you normally do: Twitter constantly. If you deserve to be on the list, they will find you. The most popular users on Twitter are crawled every day; everyone else gets crawled randomly.

Graph Twitter Use Stats For Yourself And Others

TweetStats

Twitter apps keep rolling in. To keep your Twitter fixation alive and well, there's now TweetStats, which basically graphs your stats. It's a rather simple app based on the sole premise of providing you with your (and perhaps others') Twitter use statistics.

It will graph your total tweets by the month, by the day, and by the hour. It also tells you the number of replies @ and which interface you used to Twitter your tweets. Each graph employs color-coded bars to differentiate distinct factors and numbers. The most popular Twitter interface appears to be the Web, with Twitterific coming in second.

Find Your Relevant Network Of Twitter Contacts

Twitter Friends

This is a tool that gives you a stack of interesting information regarding your use of Twitter or that of any Twitter user. Find a hidden network of Twitter contacts that are really relevant for you. View the network of your relevant contacts and their contacts. See who among your Twitter Friends are online at this very moment.

VISIT TWITTER FRIENDS:

Measure The Combined Twitter Influence For You And Your Followers

twInfluence

TwInfluence is a simple tool using the Twitter API to measure the combined influence of Twitterers and their followers. There are two different rankings calculated by twInfluence.

Overall Rank is the overall ranking in relation to all of the analyzed Twitterers to date. Grade Rank assigns a value and category that takes into account other Twitterers who have approximately the same number of followers.

VISIT TWINFLUENCE:

Calculate How Much Time You (And Others) Waste On Twitter

TweetWasters

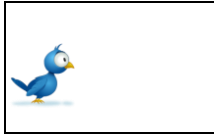

Even though it's kind of a useless application, it's fun and it has become pretty popular; TweetWasters made the Alexa Top 10 list. It's all thanks to the brilliant genius of Sugarrae, who dreamed up the idea when she noticed how much time Streko was wasting on Twitter.

She made the argument that anyone who has spent more than 24 hours of his life on Twitter can't be getting much real work done. Then she thought: Wouldn't everyone like to know how much time they're wasting on Twitter?

Find Out Which Of Your Tweets Won And Lost Followers

Tweet-Rank

Tweet-Rank displays graphical information about how many people follow you. It aims to give you details about your Twitter profile due to changes in your follower patterns. You need to follow @tweet_rank. You can check for what impact there was on your followers due to your individual tweet(s) and what kind of impact you made on your followers. The website is in German and English.

Tag Your Friends With The Twitter Tag Project

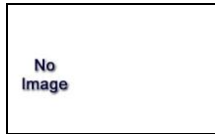

Twitter Tag Project

The name says it all: "Tag! You're It!" With The Twitter Tag Project, you select a Twitter Friend and send them the following tweet: Tag, you're it! - Come play at <http://www.theTwitterTagProject.com>. Your friend will log on and pick another victim. Then you can view all of the people who have been tagged and how many people you have infected!

Find The Retweet Rank Of Any Twitter User

ReTweetRank

ReTweetRank lets you see the rank of any Twitter user. With the rank, latest Retweets of the user are shown and an RSS feed can also be grabbed for the same.

Monitoring Retweets can provide a better understanding of the audience to the originator, while others can see the most interesting tweets of a particular user.

Track Keywords Via Free Twitter Email Alerts

TweetBeep

TweetBeep allows you to track various keywords published throughout the Twitter world. Just enter your Twitter account information, the keyword you want to track, and the email address where you want to receive notifications.

You will be updated on what's being said about you, your site, your product, or anything else that matters to you. It even finds the links that include your keyword in the original URL, even if they have been shortened by tinyURL or a similar service. You can have the tracker refreshed every few hours or every day, depending on how often you want to receive notifications.

Receive Updates On The Status Of Your Flight

MyFlightInfo

Now there is an easy way to check the status of a flight. The last thing we need to do is sign up for more alerts and services, but now this Twitter bot @myflightinfo will reply with your flight status. It's fast, free, and simple. 1) Follow @myflightinfo and wait for a follow back. 2) Send your flight information in a message like this: "d myflightinfo co101". 3) Within a minute, you should get a direct message back with your status.

Discover What's Being Tweeted On Twitterverse

Twitterverse

Twitterverse is the latest mash-up of the increasingly popular Twitter. It takes information from tweets over a certain period of time and then analyzes them to see which words are being typed the most. The site just launched and there's a lot of development to come, such as a bigger filter on the kinds of words being displayed, but it's fun to look through. You would never think that some of the most typed words are people's names. The biggest words are generally verbs, such as watching, listening, and going.

Discover What's Hot On Twitter Right Now

TwitScoop

Twitter allows everyone to tell the world what they're doing right now. Over at TwitScoop, you'll be able to stay on top of the hottest discussion topics and keywords being used on Twitter at any given time. On the homepage of the site, you see a word cloud that is constantly being modified to include the most used words on Twitter. The site hopes that, in the future, it will become a prime source of information for both people and news agencies.

Share Your Opinions And Create Your Own Straw Polls

StrawPoll

StrawPoll is a polling website that asks questions which can be answered in the Twitter environment. You can check poll results and people's answers by going to the StrawPoll website.

To get started with StrawPoll, you will first need to sign up for Twitter since, without Twitter, the concept doesn't make much sense! Upon registering for a Twitter account, you simply select that you would like follow StrawPoll and Voila! You will now receive StrawPoll questions on your Twitter account.

Discover Trends By Tracking Retweets Across Twitter

ReTweetist

The basic premise of ReTweetist is that of gauging the amount of tweets that are resent (or ReTweeted) by Twitter users. It is propounded that such a practice gives a reliable indication of how popular a Twitterer really is. Moreover, a service like this one doubles as a way of knowing which terms are the most popular in the Twitterverse.

Live Twitter Keyword Monitor In Real Time

Monitter

Monitter takes the Twitter Search concept and expands on it. Through the site, you'll be able to follow up to three keywords through the Twitter Universe. If you like the concept and you want to implement it into your blog, you can do that, too. This will allow you to get the widget and place it on your homepage in order to follow three keywords through Twitter.

Search Engine Results Ranked By Twitter Links

TweetNews

The TweetNews search tool ranks search results based on Twitter links. It follows Yahoo! News and compares its headlines with news story links on Twitter updates. A story's popularity amongst the tweeting masses will push the story up in the TweetNews results.

TweetNews uses the Yahoo! Build your Own Search Service (BOSS). This provides a clean search API that turns off the usual restrictions which control the presentation of the results. For example, it allows you to re-rank results and include external content without having to cite Yahoo! for the search results.

VISIT TWEETNEWS:

View The Most Popular Links On Twitter

TwitterBuzz

TwitterBuzz is a new Twitter app that collects the most popular links being mentioned on Twitter. TwitterBuzz uses Twitter's API to obtain this information and then organizes the links so that you can view them on their site.

Links are sorted in order of decreasing popularity. You can view links that were dropped in the last hour, day, week, or since the application was launched. You can also see the number of times each link was visited.

Receive Keyword Alerts From This Twitter Search Engine

TweetScan

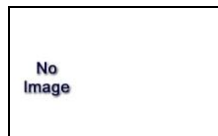

Interested in finding out about the latest meme passing through the Twittersphere? The popularity of Twitter, although not universal, has created a virtual empire of short messages. Each day that empire grows and multiplies, 140 characters at a time.

To search for tweets concentrating on a certain theme or word, we have TweetScan. This Twitter search engine seeks out various specified terms, input by you, and returns the results in an email. Each tweet delivered comes with a correspondence link so that you can reply for any reason.

VISIT TWEETSCAN:

View And Filter Tweets Based On Location

TwitterLocal

Does a day go by without a new Twitter app being made? Apparently not. Here's another one for you.

TwitterLocal is a rather cool Twitter app which lets you filter tweets by location. You can generate an RSS or XML feed to pull up tweets from a certain area, as specified by city, state, postal code, and whatever mile radius you want to include. Once you've got those deets typed in, press the handy "Go" button and you'll instantly get URLs to add to your feed reader.

Expand Your Twitter Bubble By Finding New People To Follow

Twubble

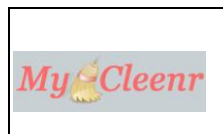

Twubble helps expand your database of Twitter contacts by suggesting new individuals to follow. The application searches your thirty most-updated contacts and suggests individuals who are not in your database, but have the maximum number of connections with people you know.

The result is a thorough list of people to follow on Twitter that you may have otherwise skipped over, or just failed to consider. All that is needed to start the search is a Twitter account and your login information.

Clean Your Twitter Contact List By Filtering Inactive Friends

MyCleanr

One of the immediate ways to clean up your Twitter account is to start deleting those you started following, but who turned out not to tweet at all.

That is exactly what MyCleanr does. You furnish your Twitter credentials and then an overview of your account is produced, showcasing inactive Twitterers by listing the time they last tweeted. As a result, it can be said that if you are not sure how to order your contact list, this new solution might be just what you need.

Learn How Annoying It Will Be To Follow A Particular Twitter User

Follow Cost

As its name implies, through Follow Cost you will be able to figure out how annoying it will be to follow a given Twitterer. This is done by calculating their rate of updates and presenting you with a daily average, measured in milliscobles, along with the frequency of their last 100 updates.

All you have to do in order to use this service is provide the username of the Twitterer you are considering following. There is no need to download anything, and no fees to be paid.

VISIT FOLLOW COST:

Quickly Organize And Classify Your New Twitter Followers

Tweepler

Generally speaking, Tweepler is a web application that lets you classify your current followers into two different buckets: "Follow" and "Ignore." The former will let you follow back those who have started following you, whereas the latter will reduce the amount of clutter that comes your way by keeping you apart from those you wish to ignore.

VISIT TWEEPER:

Easily Find Twitter Users Just Like You

Just Tweet It

With this great site's service, you'll be able to list your Twitter account and organize it depending on what you choose to talk about. While this might sound pointless, it's a great way for you to let others in your area of expertise know you're on Twitter. For example, if you're a blogger, you'll be able to list your Twitter account and find other bloggers who might write about topics similar to yours.

Discover Which Of Your Twitter Friends Know Each Other

TweetWheel

TweetWheel is an application for Twitter that provides you with a visual representation of Twitter user connections, allowing you to see which of your friends know each other. Simply type in the Twitter username you are interested in and TweetWheel quickly generates a wheel-like map that shows how that person's followers are connected.

Simply hover the mouse over each of the users and you will be told how many friends each of the followers have in common with the original username you entered.

Turn Yourself Into A Social Networking Power User

SocialToo

If you're a Twitter user, you can use SocialToo to automatically follow all of your own followers. You can also command SocialToo to blacklist certain users that you may follow on Twitter, but don't wish to follow with Social.

This app also integrates with Facebook, so any information stored on Facebook will redirect to 'yourusername.socialtoo.com.' To do this, you simply have to click a link to access a Facebook-generated short code to input on SocialToo.com. You don't have to install another application. Soon, SocialToo will incorporate other social networks to do the same.

Filter Out Friends Who Haven't Tweeted In A Long Time

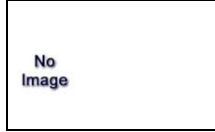

Twitoria

This tool allows you to supply the name of any fellow Twitterer and see the date when he or she last tweeted. If the person has not tweeted at all for the last couple of months, then you have a splendid excuse for giving him or her the boot. You can actually select the period of inactivity from a drop down menu when you perform the search. Featured options range from inactive for the past week to inactive for the past year.

Find Anyone In Twitter Land

TwitDir

Using Twitter's API, TwitDir indexes Twitterers on a regular basis. Of course, only public Twitter users are added to the TwitDir database, so if you prefer to be unlisted, it's absolutely not a problem. You can also directly connect to the site if you can't wait to be included in the directory.

TwitDir works like a search engine. To find someone, simply type in their name/location in the search bar. Alternately, you can easily check out the top 100 followed, the top 100 updaters, and the top 100 followers.

VISIT TWITDIR:

Find Recommendations For Interesting Tweeps To Follow

WhoShouldIFollow

WhoShouldIFollow acts much like the "People You May Know" feature on Facebook. When you first sign on to Twitter, you get a pretty good glance at your fellow Twitter contacts; however, it's not that easy to find more friends and expand your following list.

That's where WhoShouldIFollow comes in. You just enter in your Twitter name and WhoShouldIFollow will search through your friends list to find more connections to you which will be relayed back in a list of suggested friends.

Find Tweets And Twitterers Based On Location

Nearby Tweets

This solution goes by a very suitable name. Nearby Tweets is still being put together by the programmer, but you can already try it out and see how it works for you. As you can see by the title, it is a search tool for looking up Twitterers within a given range.

This search process includes one refinement label that lets you set down specific keywords in the tweets themselves. This is a nice and necessary feature; without it, the results would take ages to sift through.

Receive Twitter Quitter Alerts When Someone Stops Following You

Qwitter

This is a nifty Twitter application that will automatically email you whenever someone stops following you on Twitter. This tool is very simple to use as you don't have to login or create an account in order to receive email notifications.

All you have to do is provide your Twitter username and your current email address. The email notifications have a fixed structure. That is, they include the name of the person and his username along with the tweet that you posted which may have caused that person to stop following you. That way, you can see for yourself what went amiss and possibly try to correct it.

FoodFeed

FoodFeed is a site dedicated to sharing your eating habits with the world – if that’s something you care to do. You simply add “having” as your friend on Twitter and post your updates by sending tweets in the format “@having eggs and bacon.”

If you don’t want your updates to show up in your friends’ feeds, you twitter “d having eggs and bacon” instead. This way you can keep a record of what you eat without notifying your friends’ feeds every time you take a bite. If you want to check your FoodFeed, you can visit a simple URL provided by the site.

Let People Easily Send Twitter Messages About Your Blog Or Website

TwitThis

Embed a TwitThis button into your page so that people can easily tweet what they find Twitter-able for all of their friends, and the general public, to see. TwitThis combines Twitter and TinyURL to allow URLs of any size to be easily postable onto Twitter. TwitThis makes whatever information you're tweeting easier to read and enjoy for other users. Users can add the TwitThis button as a bookmarklet so they can post their interesting finds and what they're looking at more easily.

Pull Quotes From Websites And Automatically Post Them To Twitter

TwitSnip

TwitSnip is a simple tool for easily posting to Twitter. It lets you quote text from any web page. It does nifty things like looking up the @user for the website and linking back to the source.

It shortens the URL, too. It even tries to shorten the length of the tweet (when necessary) using a twitabulary of short words. Try it; we think you might like it.

Subject: Discover how to get the most from Twitter!

Hi <firstname>:

Twitter is taking the social marketing - and much of the corporate world - by storm. It seems everyone is tweeting. What's all the fuss about?

Well, it's a cool little tool, of course, but what can you really do with 140 characters?

As it turns out...you can do an incredible number of things such as:

- Follow your stocks
- Announce your blog post
- Track and monitor your diabetes (if you're affected)
- Record your exercise activity
- Use Twitter to help you stop smoking
- Track your sales leads
- Follow your keywords
- Find people like you
- And much, much more...

Check out My Twitter Toolbox to see more than 100 tools for using Twitter effectively. Go to:
